

Public invited to city forestry project

To the editor:

On Thursday, April 10, an important public forum on a new Forest Management Project for the City of Claremont will be held at the John B. Goodrich Business and Community Room at the Sugar River Technical Center.

The forestry management project has several objectives, including stewardship of public land in Claremont, maintaining and improving biological diversity, managing the lands with respect to natural community types, providing educational and recreational opportunities for the public, maintaining and improving wildlife habitat and managing for sustainable harvest and income.

The presentation will be facilitated by Chuck Hersey, Sullivan County Extension Forester, and Karen Bennett, Forest Resource Specialist with the UNH Cooperative Extension. Also participating will be Bruce Temple, director of DPW and Alan Britton, from Planning and Development. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Light refreshments will be served. Public input is welcome and strongly encouraged.
